

Air Wildwood Bench

SIT SUSPENDED IN THE AIR

Designer Daniele Lago - 2012

FIND MORE

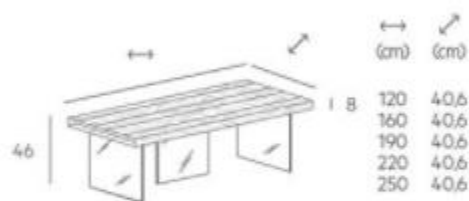

A WOODEN BENCH SUSPENDED ON TRANSPARENT GLASS LEGS

An oak bench supported by transparent extra-clear glass legs: the Air Wildwood bench seems to float in the air, lending lightness to the space.

The wood for the seat is old oak, a warm material full of wood grain that contrasts with the transparency of the glass legs, creating an original and surprising opposition.

The wooden seat, measuring 8 cm thick, comes in two variations: one with the ends completely closed, the other with recessed ends that can be customised with coloured glass. The Air Wildwood bench can accommodate between two and five people, depending on the length of the seat, and pairs perfectly with the Air Wildwood table, adding even more lightness to the room.

AIR WILDWOOD_BENCH

Panca H 46 / Bench H 46

Seduta Wildwood, gambe vetro trasparente /
Wildwood seat, transparent glass legs